Originally Released 1985

AMG EXPERT REVIEW: Coming hot off the heels of the largely successful A Private Heaven, the response to this follow-up set was surprisingly numb. Though producer Nile Rodgers had also had much success shortly before via his work with Madonna on Like a Virgin, the soul-tinged club arrangements he instilled Do You with were perhaps too retro-sounding for radio. But the strongest entries never saw life as singles: the vibrant pop/soul concoction "Don't Break My Heart" combines a savvy '60s flair in its horn arrangement with a contemporary rhythm structure, while the mellow Dan Hartman-Charlie Midnight composition "When the Lightning Strikes Again" and catchy lyrics and vocal arrangement of "Money Back Guarantee" take life as solid dance floor numbers. Easton consistently delivers driven, top-of-the-line performances, and the chemistry between Rodgers and her is apparent, resulting in her sounding much more comfortable with dance material than previous efforts. A worthy investment for any Easton fan. -- Justin M. Kantor

Do You?, February 9, 2006

Reviewer: SS2inform "Stacey" (IL)

This release by Sheena Easton came hot off the heels of her successful A PRIVATE HEAVEN album in the late fall of 1985. The project was produced by Nile Rodgers who was the hot producer of the day given his monster success with Madonna's LIKE A VIRGIN album. Some of the music on this CD has a retro-60's feel to it (Jimmy Mack, Don't Break My Heart) that is similar to the sound Nile Rodgers employed on Madonna's LIKE A VIRGIN album. It is obvious to the listener that LIKE A VIRGIN was on everybody's mind going into the making of this project. Sheena is a first-rate pop singer and it is evident on tracks like "Do It

For Love", "Can't Wait Till Tomorrow", and the subtle scorcher "Kisses". Those tracks along with her cover of Martha & The Vandella's "Jimmy Mack" are among the best tracks on the album. The track "Magic of Love" is about 3 minutes too long and the very-80's sounding ballad "When The Lightning Strikes Again" are some of the album's weakest moments. The bonus tracks consist of extended versions of the track "Do It For Love" which actually sounds better in its "single edit" form and not the ponderous extended versions offered here. Overall it is a strong set of songs for anyone who likes Sheena Easton.

the eighties sound at its finest, June 26, 2005

Reviewer: soylatte (Florida, USA)

This album deserved to be a smash. I can't believe I didn't even know it existed until recently. I've always loved Sheena's voice and had the pleasure of seeing her perform in Vegas (she is just as beautiful in person). I have a lot of her cds, but this one really stands out because of Nile Rodgers' superb production. It has a similar sound to another Nile Rodgers project, Madonna's Like a Virgin. "Can't Wait Till Tomorrow" has a relentless pop melody and frenzied guitars reminiscent of Madonna's "Dress You Up." But this isn't all derivative of Like a Virgin. Do You has its own unique sound, silky and sophisticated. The title track is irresistible and Sheena's vocals are solid as a rock. "Magic of Love" and "Kisses" add a sensual, down-tempo vibe to an otherwise energetic album. There isn't a weak track here. Do You has inspired me to explore more of Sheena's lesser-known catalog.

Departure for the Diva, March 20, 2004

Reviewer: K. Maginnis (Upstate NY)

I really enjoy this album. The music is upbeat and very well done. Unlike what some other reviewers thought, I think this is a great display of Sheena's incredible vocals. Her previous albums tended to be a bit intense in their content. Here, the music is light and breezy. One reason may be that Sheena had just gotten married, so her wedded bliss, albeit temporary, may very well have influenced her musical choices.

I love the songs that give her voice a bit of a challenge. "Don't Turn Your Back" is one. "Jimmy Mack", a re-make was very well done; I love "Young Lions" and "When The Lightning Strikes", co-written by Dan Hartman, who brought us the '80's hit, "I Can Dream About You". "Money Back Guarantee" takes the romance out of love and reminds us of Pre-nups. Overall, I enjoyed this album.

Sheena's worst by far, February 17, 2003

Reviewer: patsy b "patsybdog"

Dated production and an appalling selection of songs makes for very dull listening. Chic and Nile may have been music greats but their style does not suit Sheena at all and she sounds bored singing every one of these songs. Not impressive!

Superior Sheena, October 1, 2001

Reviewer: Fred Gruppi (USA)

"Do You" stands as Sheena Easton's finest album of her career, thanks mainly to three remarkable songs. "Do You", the song, is quite danceable, and flat-out enjoyable. "When the Lightning Strikes...", by Dan Hartman, is a standout track and quite unique in Ms. Easton's repertoire. "Kisses", by Larry Nacht, is reason alone to buy the album (it should have been a single!)- a sensual, mysterious song that cries out to be covered again by another great artist.

Pretty Decent, August 17, 2001

Reviewer: Chris S. "cscotts" (atlanta, ga United States)

After the success of her previous album A PRIVATE HEAVEN, Sheena Easton apparently felt the need to follow it up with like-minded material. Enlisting Madonna's LIKE A VIRGIN producer and Chic mastermind Nile Rodgers, DO YOU is awash in what typified music of that era--alot of drum machines and synths. Unfortunately, like most of Easton's albums around that time, the music found within hasn't held up terribly well. The album builds alot on the sounds of the previous album, though it's a bit more upbeat, so it's somewhat surprising that it was a commercial failure. The set's first single, 'Do It For Love', may come off at first listen like a Madonna cast-off, but it remains not only one of Easton's most underrated singles, but the best track on the album. Among the other tracks, 'Don't Turn Your Back', Money Back Guarantee, and 'When The Lightning Strikes' leave the most lasting impression, but again, the slightly dated production detracts somewhat from the overall feel of the album. On a positive note, Easton's vocal work is first-rate, some of her best in fact. Overall, a pretty decent effort.

The Great Lost Chic Album, November 19, 2000

Reviewer: James A. Allio "aheyheynew" (Oakland, CA USA)

"Do You" is hands down my favorite Sheena Easton album to date, and the title song one of my favorite dance-pop tracks of all time, but they were both relative commercial disappointments (if you can call gold status disappointing) compared to her previous outings at the time of release in 1985. Therefore, I held little hope out that this pumpin' LP would see digital reissue, but EMI has seen fit to reissue the entire Easton catalog, including this Nile Rodgers helmed masterwork. Every song here is red hot and smokin', with bright, indelible melodies and sharp uptown arrangements, anchored by Sheena's most joyous wailing ever. The cover of Martha Reeves and the Vandella's "Jimmy Mack" is, for once, not superfluous; it holds its own with the state-of-the-art songs it is surrounded by. The Rodgers influence is heavily felt here; in fact, you could call this The Great Lost Chic Album, but with Sheena Easton on lead vocals. There is not one cut that falls below excellent on the entire album. Particular favorites are the ecstatic "Don't Break My Heart," smoky "Kisses" and sensual "Magic of Love;" the four dance remixes that make up the bonus cuts here are all highly listenable even away from the dance floor. This is the one Sheena Easton album that was truly ahead of its time.

SHEENA EASTON'S BEST ALBUM, August 24, 2000

Reviewer: CHUCK WEST (ATLANTA, GA, USA)

The opinions of Sheena Easton fans are pretty much divided 50/50 when it comes to the album "DO YOU." The fans either LOVE IT or DISAPPROVE of it, yet it is too good a work for anyone to hate. I think the problem with this division is not the work, but the mindset of the listener. Too often fans of an artist get "stuck" in one perception of an artist, and wind up reacting instead of receiving. Just like the actor/actress who gets "typecast," musical artists have to fight to break through the limitations set by fans' and record companies' expectations of who the artist is. In turn, the fans and record companies should be listening to the artist tell THEM who the artist is. The artist is, if we are lucky, a growing, evolving human being, and their work should be viewed in the same light. That temporary exploration and periodic return to the "expected" is what keeps an artist and their work from stagnating.

"DO YOU" is Sheena Easton's best work, not only vocally but also technically. Nile Rodgers' choice of instruments, arrangements, and other production elements, along with Sheena Easton's exquisite vocal abilities make this a superior 80's POP/ROCK/R&B album, NOT a superior ADULT CONTEMPORARY album like Sheena's 1987 album "No Sound But A Heart," or 1993's "No Strings." If fans only want that kind of material, that's what they should play on their stereo, and stop complaining about the certain works that don't "meet their expectations." It would stand to reason that a fan of an artist would, at least, support the works of said artist which might not exactly be his or her favorite. I like the music so much that I would like it even if it were just an instrumental Nile Rodgers album.

My favorite tracks are the xylophone-laden "Do It For Love," the frenetic "Don't Break My Heart," the intense rocker "Don't Turn Your Back," the perky cover of the Motown classic, "Jimmy Mack," the smooth-funk "Can't Wait Til Tomorrow," and the best track, "When The Lightning Strikes Again." On the original release, "When The Lightning Strikes Again," written by Dan Hartman, was the last track on the album/CD. It builds with each prominent instrument added, layer upon layer, in the first minute or so, before Sheena Easton's vocal track begins. It should have been released as a single, and could have been the big crossover single that radio would have eaten up. It's a GREAT MELODY, and would have played well on POP/ROCK, R&B, and ADULT CONTEMPORARY radio stations alike. Over time, it has become my favorite individual track from Sheena Easton's entire span of work.

Check it out. If it's not your style, that's fine---just switch to another Sheena CD that is more "up your alley" (see the back cover graphics).

Not bad, just not great, August 8, 2000

Reviewer: A music fan

The 1 star review was a little harsh. While she does not sing in her natural soprano and some of the songs are repetitive, it's not an unenjoyable experience. For some time before this album was released, Sheena had expressed an interest in doing more dance music and in singing in a lower register. While some may miss the high notes and vocal acrobatics, Sheena's voice is at times laid back and compelling because she didn't sing each of these songs all out. Instead of intense and emotional, she sounds seductive and smooth on Magic of Love and Kisses. That's not to say she doesn't ever push herself to a stronger vocal level (Jimmy Mack, Do You). Some of it is formulaic and repetitive, and while Nile Rodgers brought a dance sound to the record, he brought too much of his stamp and didn't give Sheena quite enough room a singer of her ability deserves to express herself. If you are a Sheena fan, it's worth having. If you're not, go for Madness, Money and Music, which is stunning much of the time.

...Easily the low point in her career, August 2, 2000

Reviewer: A music fan

Sheena Easton is such a wonderful singer, but this album is the worst thing she's ever done. Coming after 1984's superb (and huge-selling) "A Private Heaven," Easton switched producers to Nile Rodgers, who was then known for his work with Madonna. The end result, instead of reflecting any of Sheena's personality, sounds like a third-rate clone of the Material Girl. There are none of the trademark ballads that Sheena is known for -- the sole slow number, "Magic of Love," is positively inane, with meaningless lyrics and an army of background singers covering up Sheena's lead vocal -- what is the point of that? And the uptempo songs are all vapid and empty. Songs such as "Strut" and "Sugar Walls" were intriguing and clever, but these tunes -- particularly "Don't Turn Your Back" and "Money Back Guarantee" -- contain empty verses that simply chug along until the choruses chime in. And on this disc, Sheena began singing in her lower register instead of her natural soprano, which results in a forced, unconvincing sound.

I love Sheena, and bought this because I buy everything she does, but listening to it again reminded me how disappointing a disc (and career move) this was.

Have been looking for the Do You (12" version) on cd for 15 years and finally it is here. The entire album is not Sheena's best work but "Do you" is one of her best single. This album didn't perform well back in 1985 but now it is rerelease, it deserves a second chance. Buy it.
